WANTED—FOUR CARPENTERS.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—In the vision of an old Hebrew prophet, as Zechariah tells the story, the Lord showed him four carpenters. The prophet was a great distress. A little while before he had seen four horns. He was told that these were symbols of the attacks that were being made upon his people from all points of the compass. These four horns were pushing this way and that, upsetting everything before them. While these horns were busy about their work of subverting or overturning the Jewish national institutions, then it was that the prophet was shown the Lord's carpenters. When Zechariah asked, "What come these to do?" he found out that their work was to smash the horns, and stop their schemes of destruction.

That is the lesson of all history. The prophet did not see these carpenters first. He saw the horns. He was troubled about the ruin they were busy accomplishing. Then it was he saw the carpenters. There were four of them, not three, nor two; for every one of the four horns, there came one of the carpenters. There were not four lawyers, to serve out writs of injunction; nor four preachers, to tell people what they ought to do; nor four architects, to draw nice plans. But there were four carpenters, to do just the work that needed to be done.

"There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them as we will." Here in this little Hawaiian Kingdom we have had four troublesome horns pushing their way to the front for some time. Vice and folly, debt and disgrace, have obstructed their ugly prongs into our very faces. But the time has come when we may expect the Lord will show us four carpenters, to do their appointed and fitting work. It may be the rough work of "saw and hammer carpenters," not the nice finish of "the cabinet-maker and joiner." We want the ugly horns out of our way. We want a decent, honorable, careful, equitable government again.

A. COHEN.

A MARKED DIFFERENCE.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Towards the end of last year Kalakaua, King of the Hawaiian Islands, held a jubilee to celebrate his fiftieth birthday; one of the chief features of the celebration being the hula danced by members of the royal seraglio in front of the palace. For three or four nights in succession, the ears of those dwelling in the vicinity of the palace were deafened by the shouting and yelling of the hula dancers and the plaudits of the king and court who sat on the verandahs gazing over the filthy and indecent gestures of the female dancers. Had the singing and dancing stopped at a reasonable hour, no outsider could have had any right to complain about His Majesty's "going on," but as the hulas, or rather hula-balos, went on in the open air during the liveliest night, allowing short intervals for gin all round, and ceasing only about 6 o'clock each morning, it was no wonder that curses, not loud but deep, were uttered by the residents living in the neighborhood of the palace, whose sleep was disturbed by the heathenish row. I would ask our friend Don Walskandens and his doughty police myrmidons why they didn't step inside the palace gates on that occasion and put a stop to the racket? They knew too well that to have attempted anything of the kind would have cost them their billets.

Now, what is sauce for the goose is ditto for the gander, and if the king and his followers are to be allowed extra licence (I do not refer to opium licence) on jubilee and like occasions, such as spruces at the boat house, surely British and other foreign residents are equally entitled to a similar latitude on an event such as Queen Victoria's Jubilee. The treaty between Great Britain and Hawaii asserts that subjects of these countries shall enjoy the same rights and privileges in the eye of the law. Judging, however, by recent events, it looks very much as if there was one law for king's hula dancers, and another for foreigners, allowing the former to hold a regular pandemonium all night, and compelling the haole to "shut up" after 10 or 11 o'clock.

CAUCASIAN.

THE MARSHAL'S PARTIALITY.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—It is stated that Marshal Kaulukou threatened to prosecute all the gentlemen at the British Jubilee dinner for disturbing quiet of night. His attention should be called to a little affair of which he was a silent spectator last Thursday night. A party of Palace habitués having loaded up rather heavily were shut out of the Hotel at half-past eleven, and created an intolerable nuisance by shouting, singing and profane swearing. Marshal Kaulukou drove up Richard street in an express, alighted opposite the drunken revellers, and having taken in the scene leisurely dismissed the express and walked toward his home. If he had done his duty he would have placed every man under arrest, but as the party consisted of gambling and drinking friends of his master no notice was taken of the scandal. This is only one out of many similar cases that might be mentioned and substantiated. In the general formation the Marshal's department should not be forgotten.

HAOLE.

DID NOT STRIKE THE WHARF.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Allow me to correct a mistake in your issue of last evening, when you say that the steamer Ewa struck the wharf at Waikiki, then crowded with people. Now, she did not strike nor even touch the wharf. But passing close to the end, where the line was caught and held in hand by two boys, and several people jumped aboard. She fortunately sheered off as she advanced along its side. Otherwise it would have been bad for the "Advertiser's" "Struggling Mass of Humanity" in less than 4 feet of water. The fault was not in the lightness of the wharf, but in its dangerous construction. This was feared by several who returned again to the bank. Indeed it looked heavy and substantial, which, no doubt, deceived the people. I observed its defect in the morning and anticipating a crowd and rush on returning, suggested to interested parties, to have a line stretched across the head of the wharf, but on returning we found it already crowded. Hence our caution in avoiding the wharf.

Yours truly,
J. A. DOWSE.

Late Foreign News.

The Caribbean arrived from San Francisco yesterday afternoon, bringing papers to the 5th instant, two days later than the latest dates previously received. The following news is gleaned from files to hand:

UNITED STATES.

El Paso, June 3.—Kit Johnson, a notorious criminal who murdered the City Marshal of Albuquerque, New Mexico, and one of his deputies some time since, and for whose apprehension a reward of $1,000 was offered, was arrested to-day by City Marshal Tom White. He was walking quietly along the street near the Post Office, when he was pointed out to the Marshal, who stepped out in front of him with revolver and covering him ordered him to throw up his hands. He made no resistance and is now safe in the county jail. Johnson has succeeded for nine months in eluding the best detective talent in the country.

Winsted (Conn.), June 3.—The World's big balloon left here to-day on its way to St. Louis, where the ascension is to be made next Saturday.

New York, June 3.—Bishop Potter, of the Episcopal Church of New York, has issued an address which outlines the consummation of a project which has for some time been in contemplation—the building in this city of a cathedral which will eclipse any church edifice in the United States—so Bishop Potter says.

It will be broadly national and popular in character and services, and a most noble and striking ornament, architecturally, to the city. The address was issued rather unexpectedly Wednesday, and so secret has the whole plan been kept that it will come as a surprise to most of the churchmen, even in this diocese.

The new building will be called the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Few details, except that it must be built in some conspicuous and fitting part of the city, have been decided upon. The structure will probably cover two ordinary blocks, and will, of course, be many years in building. The style will be Gothic, but no design or plans have been drawn.

Washington, June 3.—The President and Postmaster-General Vilas

both deny the report that the former contemplated a trip to the Pacific Coast during the recess. The President said he was glad to hear he was going West. It was the first intimation he had had of such a plan, but if the newspapers said so it must be true.

Talks with Southern politicians show that President Cleveland is getting more popular in that section constantly. Congressman Steward of Texas says that his whole State is for him, and the general sentiment in the South, is that Cleveland will be re-nominated by acclamation and re-elected by a rousing majority.

Kansas City, June 3.—A terrible rainstorm, accompanied by blinding lightning and heavy thunder, occurred here this evening. Considerable damage was done throughout the city, and two men were killed by lightning.

Passengers on the incoming trains report having passed through a windstorm fifteen miles south of here, that was so violent as to cause a panic among the passengers of one train which appeared in danger of being blown from the track.

Washington, June 3.—It is rumored here to-day that Professor Edward Mayes, of the Law University of Mississippi, would be appointed to the vacancy on the Supreme bench caused by the death of Justice Woods. The report gains some credence by reason of Professor Mayes' well established legal reputation and the additional fact that he is the son-in-law of Secretary Lamar.

However, the leading Mississippians in Washington say that if this position is to be awarded to that State, it will be given to Senator George, who is indorsed unanimously by the bar of Mississippi.

Hon. William A. Wheeler, ex-Vice President of the United States, died at Malone, Franklin county, New York, June 4th. He remained in a comatose state during the night, and passed peacefully away without a sign of recognition to those about him.

Assistant Secretary Maynard, June 4th, addressed a letter to the Collector of Customs at San Francisco, transmitting an extract from a dispatch from the United States Commercial Agent at Noumea, New Caledonia, a French penal colony, in regard to exportation of convicts from that colony to San Francisco. Judge Maynard instructs the Collector to take special care that the emigrant laws are properly enforced, so as to prevent the landing of any persons so shipped to this country. It found to be convicts. The Collector is also instructed to convey that information to the Commissioner of Immigration at San Francisco.

California has been visited by severe earthquake shocks. Not much damage, however, has been done.

CANADA.

Halifax, (N. S.), June 3.—In the Admiralty Court yesterday the case of the American schooner Ella M. Doughty, which was seized by the Dominion authorities some time ago for violating the fisheries laws, was heard. Captain Doughty testified that he bought a few barrels of bait which were offered him in St. Anne's bay, but he had no intention of using it within the three-mile limit.

He did not remain in port voluntarily, but was unable to get away on account of the ice. He had not been warned against buying bait. June 3.—A special from Ottawa to the Tribune says: The Government regrets the complications which have arisen out of the misunderstanding over the fisheries, and have come to the conclusion to recommend that a committee be appointed to meet a committee of the United States Government and debate the whole question, with a view to arranging a treaty on terms similar to those contained in the treaty at Washington.

The results of O'Brien's visit to Montreal are showing themselves more plainly every day in the bitter feeling that has been stirred up between the different sections of the population. The propriety of the agitation is being discussed more acrimoniously than ever. French Canadians don't take much interest in the matter beyond denouncing the religious bigotry that caused the attacks on O'Brien, but the Protestants and Irish Catholics who have been drawn toward each other in self-defence during the riot agitation are now separated more widely than ever.

GREAT BRITAIN.

London, June 3.—The Whitsuntide plate, 5,000 sovereigns, five furlongs, for two-year-olds, was run to-day. There were nineteen starters. Douglas Baird's filly Briar Root won by a neck, Lord Zetland's colt, by Isometry out of Elangowan, second, the Duke of Portland's colt Ayrshire third, only a head behind.

The first summer meeting of Sandown Park opened to-day. The Electric stakes, 3,000 sovereigns, three-year-olds, five furlongs, was won by Douglas Baird's colt Wood-lawn by three-quarters of a length, C. J. Merry's colt by Doncaster, out of Shannon, second, only a head in advance of Lord Harrington's colt Isosceles, third.

London, June 3.—At a meeting at Welverhampton this evening Lord Randolph Churchill advised the Unionists to make a solid stand and show Gladstone that they are equally as determined as himself in the matter of the Irish question. When Parliament reassembles strong measures ought to be adopted to prevent the Crimes bill being amended until it became useless.

Returning to the question of economy, he condemned the expenditures for the army and navy, and said under the present system the country was traveling at a racing speed along a road leading to utter irretrievable ruin. In the event of war, England might, after a maddening delay and pouring out money like water, put 150,000 men in the field.

Doubtless, England had a very powerful fleet on paper, but not a single fortress of strategic importance throughout the Empire properly armed and provisioned. Many were entirely unarmed and unprovided. Every department in the military and naval services was supplied with defective weapons, and despite wasteful expenditures there was not at home transportation facilities for 20,000 men.

The Times commenting on Lord Randolph Churchill's speech says: Let Lord Randolph convert his indignation into a steady fire of resolute purpose, and mature his plan with patient and sober industry. Then he may become a terror to evil-doers, and some day an opportunity may come for putting his ripened purposes into execution.

London, June 4.—A monster procession in honor of Gladstone was held at Swansea, Wales, to-day. Gladstone, with prominent Liberals of Wales, occupied a special stand, from which he reviewed a parade of 100,000 Welshmen, wearing rosettes and bearing banners and accompanied by numerous bands. As they marched past the stand cannons were fired and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The procession was five hours in passing the review stand. After the men all passed they massed to hear Gladstone, who spoke for an hour. He said that the waste of time in the House of Commons was due to the fact that the Coercion bill was badly framed, badly conducted, wanting a basis of facts, extravagant, insidious in its objects and totally mismanaged as well as misconceived. Lord Salisbury's complaint of obstruction was unmanly and effeminate. The fatigued Conservatives should be given a longer Whitsun holiday. He warned that they would be even more tired, for it would be impossible to permanently govern Ireland coercively in the light of day and in the atmosphere of freedom. Gladstone asked the Welshmen to believe the Irish human beings, full of noble qualities. He was confident that the Welshman would sympathize with the Irishman in the difficult and arduous contest in which their triumph was absolutely certain.

Taro Flour Poi!

New Receipt Discovered for Cooking Taro Flour Poi.

On the Same Principle as Corn
Meal or Oat Meal is Cooked.

One round of Taro Flour cooked this way will make 5 pounds of hard poi.
Take the desired amount of Taro
Flour, mix it with cold water in sufficient quantities to make it a thick paste.
Place it in a porcelain pot, (and no other) on a slow fire, add hot water
slowly or enough to prevent it burning.
Keep stirring with a spoon or stick for an hour while cooking; then set it on another slower fire for another hour.
When cooked place it in a bowl or cal-bush and let it remain for 24 hours; then it ready for use, adding sufficient cold water to make it the proper thickness. If found lumpy, squeeze through a piece of mosquito netting.
All families desiring clean poi will do well to give Taro Flour, prepared this way, a new trial.
These desiring sour poi must let it remain two or three days. 65 2w
